Key features of the model	Significant devolved powers, decision making and resources to area boards	Significant devolved powers, decision making and resources to area boards – detail to be developed by Joint Committee Most local level for decision making Holding to account council executive, officers and other agencies on local matters Local engagement on unitary-wide matters such as consultees on the budget and formulation of policy Creation of dedicated 'area' plans to target resources and direct activity Local relationship building	Community leadership and influence Community Area grants (community and youth groups) Consultation and engagement (eg. on local transport) Minor works budget (~£15k per board)	Community networks <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Public forums • Leadership on local priorities • Providing local voice • Promoting wellbeing of the local area and communities • Relationship building
Local planning	Area boards take local planning decisions, with a strategic planning committee for the county	Five local planning committees and a strategic planning committee – to be revised as new planning framework develops, but in the interim need to reflect existing Local Plan areas.	Four local planning committees and a strategic planning committee	Three local planning committees and a strategic planning committee

Modelling of Council Tax following the creation of a new Oxford City Council and assuming current rises in County Council Tax show that it would be possible to achieve levels of council tax no higher than would be expected under the current two-tier system.

Non unitary 2018/19 Council Tax compared to Unitary Council Tax 2019/20

Modelling of Council Tax following the creation of a new Oxford City Council and assuming current rises in County Council Tax show that it would be possible to achieve levels of council tax no higher than would be expected under the current two-tier system.

Saving from Unitary Council Tax 2018/19 - Oxford less £150
